

CALL for ENTRIES

*A collaboration between the Museum of Ventura County (MoVC) and the American Institute of Architects Ventura County (AIAVC)
February 19 thru May 22, 2019*

The DESIGN in the MAKING Ventura County Architecture exhibition is an exploration of the dynamic role of architects and designers in affecting positive change in our community through the Design Thinking Process. As we build on the past can we find the creative design thread that leads to innovation for the environmental needs of the future?

Check one or more box(es); Complete form and for each submit a brief narrative of 100 words or less along with any images (if applicable) no later than January 16th; Return via email to mary@follenweiderassociates.com; For questions contact Mary Follenweider, AIA, Secretary AIAVC, at 720-839-4532; Any transmitted imagery not to exceed 3 MB.

1. CRITIQUE OF THE PAST

MoVC opens its architectural archives to the public for the very first time. Looking into the history of today's beloved buildings and places that define the character of Ventura County, we may find that disruptive design, deemed unconventional in the past, seems fittingly appropriate in today's California landscape. We're seeking stories and images of controversies that may have arisen during the design of local structures.

2. DEEP DIVE INTO THE PRESENT

Architects and designers strive to resolve the complexities and contradictions of place making and structure. Submit examples of County projects built or un-built highlighting the evolving conversation inherent within the design process.

3. WINDOW INTO THE FUTURE

Have you seen a problem or opportunity for improvement? A live and interactive design process will unfold over the course of the exhibition where Designers-In-Residence and Community will come together to create solutions to local place making issues. We're looking for ideas that will strengthen or improve our community from benches to reimagining downtown.

4. VOLUNTEERS

We need architects, students, and designers of any stripe to participate and/or lead interactive design sessions to be scheduled weekly on Sundays during the exhibition.

IF YOU OR YOUR PROJECT IS SELECTED, YOU WILL BE CONTACTED REGARDING SUBMITTALS AND SCHEDULE. THANK YOU!
